Any Point in Time.

AACP – Australian Association of Consultant Pharmacy

The AACP is the major credentialing body for professional pharmacy cognitive services that are remunerated separately from the supply of medicines. Its primary role is to develop and administer the assessment process leading to the accreditation of registered pharmacists.

The AACP came into existence as the Australian Society of Consultant Pharmacists (ASCP) in 1992 and all of our customers are pharmacists.

The AACP was established to develop a national approach to the practice of 'consultant' pharmacy as an expansion of the professional health role of pharmacy in Australia. As such, it promotes and seeks recognition for the practice of consultant pharmacy and the provision of value-added, professional services in Australia.

CloudAlly and Secure Backups

AACP moved to Office 365 so they can access their emails and file storage when working outside the office. Most of AACP's full-time staff now work from home one day per week, so cloud based solutions are essential to their activities.

AACP understood that while moving its software and data to the cloud, it has provided them with huge benefits in terms of accessibility, but it has caused some concern in terms of security.

"Backing up the data using CloudAlly has given us some relief ... we know we have a backup of it, if we ever need it." Louise Irvine, Financial Controller

CloudAlly Reports and Verification of Data Security

Furthermore, AACP uses the daily system reports which have helped to provide a piece of mind that the backups have been completed successfully.

CloudAlly Customer Support

"Great service at a great price for a SME." Louise Irvine, Financial Controller
